

Marek Swierad was born a globetrotter and has spent a lot of time living around the world and making new friends. I met Marek in Moscow where he wrote his doctorate at the Moscow State Institute of International Relations. But that was a lifetime ago in a different era...

Today he has turned his focus away from the world economy to poetry. This is the best means by which person can see ourselves for who we really are. Because..., poetry leads our heart to mysterious doors behind which feelings and dreams hide.
